studies have demonstrated that a low-to-moderate reduction in caloric intake (10–20%) while maintaining the nutrient density of the diet promotes weight loss and improves metabolic health. However, the optimal level of caloric restriction for maximizing health benefits while minimizing the risk of malnutrition remains unclear. This study aims to investigate the effects of different levels of caloric restriction on weight loss and metabolic health in a population of overweight individuals.

Nazarene throngs sign of rising poverty—prelate

By Joseph L. ...

MANILA (Philippine Daily Inquirer) — The Nazarene Church in the Philippines is showing signs of rising poverty, according to a report by a senior church official. The report, which was released last week, says that the church is seeing a significant increase in the number of people who are unable to pay their church dues. This is a sign, the report says, that the church is becoming more of a social service agency than a religious institution.

The new body would be responsible for auditing government accounts and for investigating and reporting on any irregularities it finds. Fiber in a pill promises less fat intake

By David J. Jordan

It's a simple idea: a pill that helps you eat less fat. And it's a simple solution to a complex problem: how to lose weight without giving up the things you love to eat. The pill, called "Fiber in a Pill," is made of a natural fiber called psyllium. It's been around for decades, but now it's being marketed as a weight-loss aid. The idea is that the fiber in the pill will bind to the fat in your food and help you excrete it before it can be absorbed by your body. The pill is made of a natural fiber called psyllium.
